Columbia University sets goals for dollars spent with minority, women and locally-based firms on construction projects. Current goals for subcontractors are 15% Minority Business Enterprises (MBE), 5% Women Business Enterprises (WBE) and 5% Local Business Enterprises (LBE). The construction of the Columbia University School of Social Work exceeded its goals with a combined total of 31% of the work or approximately $15.9 million awarded to Minority and Women owned construction related firms. Locally owned firms were awarded approximately 8.3% of the contract awards with approximately $4.4 million being awarded to firms in that category.
