Implementation Plan Report
October 15, 2013 Submission

Final Declaration Reference and Key Data

Section Number: 5.07 (c)(vi)      Obligation Trigger: PACB Approval
Page Number: 53      Obligation Start Date: May 20, 2009 (PACB Approval date)
Obligation End Date: May 20, 2034 (25 Years from Commencement)
Status: In Compliance

Obligation

Undergraduate Scholarships for Aid-Eligible Students from the Local Community. In an effort to encourage students to attend Columbia College and the Fu School of Engineering and Applied Science, CU shall undertake a targeted recruitment effort for qualified students from the local community. Commencing on May 20, 2009, CU shall establish a scholarship fund to serve up to 40 aid-eligible undergraduate students per year who are admitted to Columbia College and the Fu School of Engineering and Applied Science from Harlem, with funding made available to meet their fully demonstrated financial need until 2033 or for a period of 25 years from commencement, whichever is longer.

Process

- Columbia's office of Undergraduate Admissions (for Columbia College and the School of Engineering and Applied Science) will conduct recruitment efforts for high school students that live within Community District 9.
- Columbia's office of Undergraduate Admissions (for Columbia College and the School of Engineering and Applied Science) will host an annual event for students and parents from the local community regarding the college admissions process.

External Communications

Please see Annual Community Outreach and Communications Plan for upcoming year.

Evidence of Compliance

1. Copies of public notifications and/or announcements of available scholarships
2. Annual report

Summer Programs College Fair at Columbia University in the City of New York

Date: Thursday, July 18, 2013

Location: Roone Arledge Auditorium, Lerner Hall

Enter on Broadway between 114th and 115th Streets

Columbia's Office of Undergraduate Admissions and the Columbia Summer Programs for High School Students invite you and your students to participate in our annual summer college fair, scheduled for Thursday, July 18, 2013. Students and educators will have the chance to meet with representatives from approximately 100 colleges. The fair is a wonderful opportunity to learn about future educational options, academic and social support at the undergraduate level and financial aid and scholarship resources.

Individual students do not need to register.

Visit our website for directions to campus and information on parking. Please contact Kamilah Holder, Director of Multicultural Recruitment at kmh2195@columbia.edu with any questions.

Dear Colleague,

For many high school students and their families, the college admissions and financial aid processes can seem confusing. To help explain the process and highlight resources and opportunities available for students, Columbia University is hosting an Admissions and Financial Aid Community Workshop. This free event is for community members in Northern Manhattan and the South Bronx, but all students and families are welcome to attend.

This information session, scheduled for Thursday, August 15, will begin promptly at 6 p.m. in the Faculty Room of Low Memorial Library. For directions to campus and parking, please visit the Admissions website.

Please feel free to advertise this event to any students that you work with - for your convenience, we have a PDF poster that you are welcome to print and distribute. No registration is necessary. High school counselors, educators and members of community based organizations are all welcome to attend.

If your students are unable to participate in next week's event, please note that we offer information sessions and campus tours throughout the year. To register, please visit the Admissions website.

For questions, please contact James Bogner, Assistant Director of Financial Aid, via e-mail at jlb2166@columbia.edu or by phone at 212-854-1805.

We look forward to seeing your students on campus!

Best wishes,

Jessica Marinaccio
Dean of Undergraduate Admissions and Financial Aid

Summer at Columbia: Programs Bring Local Students to Campus

By Kevin Brannon

Recent participants in the Columbia University Local Community High School Summer Internship Program paid a visit to the Diabetes Center at Columbia University Medical Center/NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital.

Bringing young people to campus for summer internships and camps is part of a continuing effort to make the University's resources available to our neighbors. One such program provides scholarships for children in the Manhattanville/West Harlem area to attend Roaree's Cubs Camps, a sports program for children 6 through 12. Another program offers paid, five-week summer internships for high school students.

Columbia's Summer Program for High School Students at the School of Continuing Education, now in its 27th year, offers an opportunity for high-achieving students to get a taste of college life. The students take part in organized sports and community outreach projects and attend college prep classes. Scholarships are available to students nominated by local community organizations.

Information on how to apply for Summer 2014 programs as well as details on other Columbia community programs and services can be found on page 6.

Design for Excellence: New Sports Center Reflects Commitment to Athletics and Community

The New York Times has called Columbia's new Campbell Sports Center a building that shows both its "brains and its brawn," which makes perfect sense for a facility meant to support the University's athletic and academic excellence.

The sports center isn't the only change coming to the athletics complex, which faces the waterfront in Inwood Hill Park. The University is building the Boathouse Marsh, which will restore the park's salt marsh and create public access to previously inaccessible waterfront along the Harlem River.

Made possible through the generosity of numerous donors, the facility is named in honor of Columbia's trustee chair, William V. Campbell, who was the captain of Columbia's football team in 1961.

Campbell, recalling his years as a Columbia linebacker, and later the team's coach, described the dilapidated Baker Field, when he coached there in the 1970s, as "not a welcoming place." Today, by contrast, "we have a stadium, now we have a welcoming gate, now we have an athletics facility that the students, the faculty, the alumni and the neighborhood will all be glad to be a part of."

Community Services

As part of the University's ongoing commitment to the local community, Columbia has dedicated a portion of the Neighbors website to communicate some of the University's commitments for project-related programs and services that are currently available. For a comprehensive listing of programs and services, and participant eligibility, please visit www.columbia.edu/communityservices

Annual Meetings With Columbia University Faculty and Administrators

Columbia University's Office of Government and Community Affairs, or other appropriate office, each spring provides opportunities for interested members of Columbia University's academic community to meet with members of the West Harlem Development Corporation (WHDC) to discuss ways in which research might help support the activities and priorities of the WHDC.

Athletics Clinics

Columbia University's varsity sports programs and coaches of football, volleyball, basketball, soccer, swimming, track and field, and tennis sponsor and participate in seasonal sports clinics for local community children between the ages of 5 and 13 in University facilities and throughout Harlem and Washington Heights.

Columbia Employment Information Center

The Columbia Employment Information Center (CEIC) (the "Center") serves as the central community-based resource for local residents to apply for open positions at Columbia University.

The Center provides a wide range of services to the local community including in-person and online job readiness training programs, one-on-one job-search counseling and assistance, and access to online job opportunities at Columbia.

You are welcome to call our 24-hour hotline at 212-851-1551; it provides general information about the Center, information on Columbia University job opportunities, information on construction activities and information on construction-related job opportunities.

Columbia University Minority-, Women-, and Locally-Owned (MWL) Construction Trades Certificate Mentorship Program

The Columbia University Minority-, Women-, and Locally-owned (MWL) Construction Trades Certificate Mentorship Program ("the Program") is a two-year mentorship program offered by Columbia University (CU) in partnership with the City of New York Small Business Services (SBS). The Program provides construction administration training, one-on-one technical assistance and networking opportunities to help build the capacity of small- and medium-sized MWL construction trade firms to respond to bidding opportunities and manage the construction job cycle.

Dental Health Screenings for Senior Citizens

Columbia University offers free dental health screenings for senior citizens throughout Northern Manhattan via the ElderSmile Program. As part of Columbia University's College of Dental Medicine Community DentCare Network, the ElderSmile Program offers free dental screenings and referrals for further dental treatment at senior centers throughout Washington Heights/Inwood and Harlem, including New York City Housing Authority (NYCHA) residents in Manhattanville Houses and General Grant Houses.

Housing Legal Assistance

For the period from January 1, 2009, through December 31, 2014, Columbia University will provide funding for one attorney, acceptable to New York City's Housing Preservation & Development Office (NYCHPD).

For the period from January 1, 2015, through December 31, 2030, Columbia University will provide funding for two attorneys at a legal assistance provider acceptable to NYCHPD serving the Manhattanville Area, to provide anti-eviction/anti-harassment legal assistance for residents of the Manhattanville area. Funding will not exceed $4 million through December 31, 2030.

Mobile Dental Center for Preschool Children

Columbia University offers free dental care for preschool-age children from the Manhattanville in West Harlem area through the Mobile Dental Center. The Mobile Dental Center is a program of Columbia University's College of Dental Medicine Community DentCare Network, which aims to reduce dental decay and improve the oral health of Northern Manhattan's underserved children, through comprehensive dental treatment and oral health education.

The Columbia University Local Community High School Summer Internship Program

Columbia University offers paid summer internships for high school students from the local community and upper level students at the Columbia Secondary School (CSS) for Math, Science, and Engineering. The Columbia University Local Community High School Summer Internship Program is a structured five-week program designed to provide students with practical work experience before graduation. The program began with students from the local community in 2010 and added students from CSS in 2012 when students reached the upper grades and became age-eligible for such an internship. The internships take place in existing Columbia facilities and will be moved to the new Academic and Academic Research buildings proposed within the Project Site when constructed.

Shuttle Bus Service for the Elderly and Disabled

Columbia University provides a shuttle bus service free of charge to members of the local community who are disabled or who are senior citizens (including their attendants) via the ADA-accessible Inter-campus Shuttle. The shuttle bus service complies with ADA specifications to connect the Project Site to subway stations at:

- 96th Street and Broadway
- 116th Street and Broadway (Morningside Campus)
- 125th Street and Broadway
- Harlem Hospital Center (135th Street and Lenox Avenue)
- Columbia University Medical Center (168th Street and Broadway)

The shuttle bus service runs on a regular schedule throughout the day on every weekday, except on state and federal public holidays.

Space Provisions for Non-Columbia-Affiliated Local Artists and Cultural Organizations

Columbia University, consistent with current practice, makes good faith efforts to accommodate requests by local artists and cultural organizations not affiliated with Columbia for access to its indoor or outdoor spaces for programming that may include, but is not limited to, information sessions, performances, special events or presentations. Payment for such space will be in accordance with then current University protocols. Columbia University space is generally awarded on a first-come, first-served basis, with priority given to Columbia and student activities, followed by local community activities.

Summer Camp Scholarships

Columbia University offers 25 scholarships per summer, based upon financial need, for children from the Manhattanville in West Harlem area to attend Columbia's Summer Sports Camp: Roar-ee's Cubs Summer Camp. One scholarship is equal to one week of summer camp.

Undergraduate Scholarships for Aid-Eligible Students From the Local Community

In an effort to encourage local students to attend Columbia College and the Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science, Columbia University undertakes a targeted recruitment effort for qualified students from the local community. Columbia University has established a scholarship fund to serve up to 40 aid-eligible undergraduate students per year who are admitted to Columbia College and/or the Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science, with funding made available to meet their fully demonstrated financial need.

Dear Neighbor,

In addition to its many established community programs and partnerships, Columbia University provides numerous amenities and benefits to the local community in conjunction with the development of a new Manhattanville campus in West Harlem. These commitments reflect the many ways in which the University and the local community have joined together to improve the quality of health, education, culture, and civic life in Upper Manhattan.

I am writing today to share with you a publication entitled Growing Together: An Update on Community Services, Amenities, and Benefits of Columbia University's Manhattanville Campus in West Harlem. This booklet provides an update on construction progress as well as information about many of the programs and services under the Declaration of Covenants & Restrictions (as agreed to with Empire State Development) and the West Harlem Community Benefits Agreement (as agreed to with the West Harlem Development Corporation) currently available relating to:

- CHILDREN AND YOUTH
- ELDERLY AND DISABLED
- ADULTS
- EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND JOB TRAINING
- ACCESS TO FACILITIES AND SERVICES
- HOUSING
- MONETARY CONTRIBUTIONS TO
  - A Community Benefits Fund via The West Harlem Development Corporation
  - Harlem Community Development Corporation

We hope you find this information helpful. If you would like more information on any of these programs or services, including information on eligibility and access, please visit our Community Services Website or contact the Office of Government and Community Affairs at 212-854-2871 or communityaffairs@columbia.edu. You can also request a hard copy of the "Growing Together: An Update on Community Services, Amenities, and Benefits of Columbia University's Manhattanville Campus in West Harlem" booklet at the contact information above. If you would prefer not to receive these periodic updates, please reply to this e-mail with the word "REMOVE" in the subject line.

Sincerely,

Maxine Griffith, AICP
Executive Vice President
Office of Government and Community Affairs
and Special Advisor, Campus Planning

Note: For the purpose of determining program eligibility, "local community" means the neighborhoods in the following zip codes: 10025, 10026, 10027, 10029, 10030, 10031, 10032, 10033, 10034, 10035, 10037, 10039, 10040, 10451, 10454, 10455, 10474 unless otherwise defined.

CHILDREN AND YOUTH

As an institution of higher education, the University is committed to helping young people have a bright and promising future. As such, Columbia provides a wide range of services to children and youth in the local community.

UNDERGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS FOR COLUMBIA

COLLEGE AND COLUMBIA ENGINEERING

Since fall of 2010, Columbia has provided at least 40 annual need-based undergraduate scholarships to local, aid-eligible students.

Once students are admitted to Columbia College or The Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science, the Office of Financial Aid and Educational Financing evaluates each student individually in order to determine his or her financial need.

TWO NEW PUBLIC SCHOOLS

In partnership with the NYC Department of Education, Columbia has been instrumental in opening two new public schools in Community Board 9 to support the academic growth of young people in the local community—the Teachers College Community School and the Columbia Secondary School for Math, Science, & Engineering.

Teachers College and the NYC Department of Education opened the Teachers College Community School in September 2011. It is a nonselective school that utilizes its close relationship with Teachers College to provide comprehensive educational services. The Teachers College Community School began in 2011 with a kindergarten class and when fully enrolled, the school will serve approximately 300 children in pre-K through 8th grade. More information can be found at www.tc.columbia.edu/communityschool.

The Columbia Secondary School for Math, Science, & Engineering (CSS-MSE) is a selective public, 6th through 12th grade school that opened in the fall of 2007. Through partnership between the New York City Department of Education, the community, and Columbia University, CSS-MSE provides a rigorous and demanding program, offering opportunities for students to engage in research and service learning at Columbia and in the city. Beginning with a founding 6th grade class, the school will add one grade per year until it reaches its full enrollment of 650 students. The first high school class will graduate in June 2014. More information can be found at www.columbiasecondary.org.

Columbia University has established a scholarship fund to serve up to 40 aid-eligible undergraduate students per year who are admitted to Columbia College and/or the Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science, with funding made available to meet their fully demonstrated financial need.

Eligibility
Local high school students who are:

- Admitted to Columbia College (CC) and/or the Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS)
- Aid-eligible. Contact the Columbia Financial Aid & Educational Financing Office to determine your eligibility based on financial need:
<http://www.studentaffairs.columbia.edu/finaid/eligibility/contribution.php>

How to Access
Recruitment efforts are conducted at high schools in the local community. Columbia University hosts an annual Summer College Fair as part of the University's local outreach efforts.
Students must undergo Columbia's undergraduate admissions process. For more information, contact Columbia's Office of Undergraduate Admissions.

Outreach Plan Summary

Columbia Summer Programs College Fair - Every summer Columbia University hosts one of the largest summer college fairs in the country attracting over 100 colleges from across the country. The breadth and depth of our college preparatory efforts for local students increases the popularity of our summer college fair. The college fair consists of workshops for local parents and students, including tips for performing your college search and navigating the college fair, a workshop on financial aid, and a workshop on the college application process. The fair is typically attended by more than 2,000 community members throughout

In addition to these initiatives we have invited students to the following on campus programs:

- Multicultural Open House- workshops on admissions and financial aid
- Engineering Invitationals- meetings with faculty, master Classes, tours of laboratories Science Invitational- master classes, student service panels, Laboratory visits, financial aid workshop.
- Columbia Engineering Experience- NYC site visits, engineering competitions, classes (three day program for underrepresented students).
- Admissions/Financial Aid Workshop for Upper Manhattan and South Bronx students and families.

Summary of Local Outreach Efforts / Fall 2012– Spring 2013

Columbia University’s Office of Undergraduate Admissions undertakes numerous recruiting efforts geared towards students from high schools in the local community. Columbia University visits schools in the targeted outreach area on an annual basis, with visits typically occurring during the fall semester of each academic year. We also visit schools outside the targeted area that enroll students from the targeted area. See the attached list of schools visited each year. We accept invitations to school based college fairs, provide workshops on admission and financial aid, and provide opportunities for students to participate in on campus programs for high school students.

Invitations to all programs are sent to students who are on our mailing lists, neighborhood schools, community based organizations, community boards and other potentially interested parties. Students often contact Columbia University directly to inquire about admissions. If their high school is scheduled for a visit during the academic year, those students are contacted individually to notify them of the upcoming visit.

Targeted Outreach / Recruitment Initiatives:

- Multicultural Open House- workshops on admissions and financial aid
- Engineering Invitational- meetings with faculty, master Classes, tours of laboratories Science Invitational- master classes, student service panels, Laboratory visits, financial aid workshop.
- Columbia Engineering Experience- NYC site visits, engineering competitions, classes (three day program for underrepresented students).
- Admissions/Financial Aid Workshop for Upper Manhattan and South Bronx students and families.

Partnerships:

We have also partnered with New York City public schools and programs that have formed consortia (e.g. partnerships have been established with schools and programs such as College Bound Initiative, and we work with Prep for Prep, The Albert G. Oliver Program, A Better Chance, the TEAK Foundation, and other such programs that support first generation/low income students (some from Harlem and Upper Manhattan by placing them in private preparatory boarding schools in the Northeast and private day schools in New York City. These programs attract some of the most talented students from the targeted areas and provide them a most challenging educational experience.

We have established contact with Community Board 9 in an effort to ensure that residents are aware of Columbia's outreach and educational programs that serve high school students and adult learners in our neighborhood.

To strengthen outreach, we also participate in college fairs sponsored by public middle schools and high schools where students have the opportunity to speak to Columbia administrators and student representatives from the Minority Recruitment Committee, a committee formed specifically to participate in college fairs in the local community.

College Fairs and Programs Attended:

- College Edge Seminar and Fair
- NSBE Pre-college Initiative Fair
- Parents Night at The High School for Math, Science and Engineering at City College
- Harlem Week College Fair in August
- Bronx Engineering and Technology Academy (BETA)

- Harlem Village Academies Spring College Fair
- A Phillip Randolph Spring College Fair
- "I Have A Dream" Foundation College Admissions Visit (Harlem CBO)

On Campus Initiatives:

The Visitor's Center (an extension of the Admissions Office) offers daily information sessions and campus tours for anyone interested in learning more about Columbia University. Information sessions are held twice daily and provide time for question and answers. An administrator covers topics such as the admissions process, financial aid opportunities, and academic programs.

This year we also hosted campus visits for several schools and programs from the targeted area which included general information sessions, student guided tours, and panels comprised of current students.

Among those programs/schools that participated in on campus visits were:

- Pathways to College
- Bronx Institute Honors Scholars
- NYC's Urban Schools Program
- Mott Hall High School
- Harlem Center for Education
- New Heights Charter School

Columbia Summer Programs College Fair

Every summer Columbia University hosts one of the largest summer college fairs in the country attracting over 100 colleges from across the country. The breadth and depth of our college preparatory efforts for local students increases the popularity of our summer college fair. The college fair consists of workshops for local parents and students, including tips for performing your college search and navigating the college fair, a workshop on financial aid, and a workshop on the college application process. The fair is typically attended by more than 2,000 community members throughout the day's events.

New initiatives:

The Office of Undergraduate Admissions has assigned an officer to liaise with the College Access Consortium of New York. CACNY states in its mission: "an informal gathering of community-based organizations (CBOs) coming together to network since each was involved in assisting New York City's young adults gain access to college. As need and increasing college costs continued to bar so many with hopes of higher education, network members placed a special emphasis on helping students and their families apply for, and receive financial aid. Unique to New York City, these community-based agencies are located in dense neighborhoods of high poverty, in need of vast education and academic enrichment supports.

Many of these CBOs serve students in the targeted areas. We will be hosting CACNY on our campus this year.

Another officer is working with the students/teacher who organizes the Community Garden on 119th and Amsterdam; basically, the middle school students learn about time management, study skills and the kinds of courses to take for high school. Students attend the Middle School on 123rd Street that is attached to the Columbia University School. This is a good early identification and building the pipeline effort.

We have established a new relationship with The Young Eisner Scholars (www.yesscholars.org) which was founded in Los Angeles and has established a New York City branch that provided a summer program on Columbia's campus for middle school students from Harlem and the Bronx. This program is trying to establish a pipeline by working with middle school students in the targeted areas. We conducted a long range college planning program for this year's participants.
