Summer at Columbia: Programs Bring Local Students to Campus

By Kevin Brannon

Bringing young people to campus for summer internships and camps is part of a continuing effort to make the University’s resources available to our neighbors. One such program provides scholarships for children in the Manhattanville/West Harlem area to attend Roarre’s Cubs Camps, a sports program for children 6 through 12. Another program offers paid, five-week summer internships for high school students.

Columbia’s Summer Program for High School Students at the School of Continuing Education, now in its 27th year, offers an opportunity for high-achieving students to get a taste of college life. The students take part in organized sports and community outreach projects and attend college prep classes. Scholarships are available to students nominated by local community organizations.

Information on how to apply for Summer 2014 programs as well as details on other Columbia community programs and services can be found on page 6.

Design for Excellence: New Sports Center Reflects Commitment to Athletics and Community

The New York Times has called Columbia’s new Campbell Sports Center a building that shows both its “brain and its brawn,” which makes perfect sense for a facility meant to support the University’s athletic and academic excellence. The sports center isn’t the only change coming to the athletics complex, which faces the waterfront in Inwood Hill Park. The University is building the Boathouse Marsh, which will restore the park’s salt marsh and create public access to previously inaccessible waterfront along the Harlem River.

Made possible through the generosity of numerous donors, the facility is named in honor of Columbia’s trustee chair, William V. Campbell, who was the captain of Columbia’s football team in 1961. Campbell, recalling his years as a Columbia linebacker, and later the team’s coach, described the dilapidated Baker Field, when he coached there in the 1970s, as “not a welcoming place.” Today, by contrast, “we have a stadium, now we have a welcoming gate, now we have an athletics facility that the students, the faculty, the alumni and the neighborhood will all be glad to be a part of.”
