COLUMBIA | Wellness Center

Located in Columbia University's new Jerome L. Greene Science Center in West Harlem

The Wellness Center provides free blood pressure readings, cholesterol screening and A1C glucose testing to the community. Visitors will receive a record of their results, as well as information on ways they can improve their health.

On request, Wellness Center staff will provide information about free and low-cost health care available throughout Harlem and upper Manhattan. The Wellness Center will also provide onsite assistance with health insurance enrollment.

In addition to providing free blood pressure and cholesterol screening, the Wellness Center is home to two programs dedicated to empowering the community through health education.

The Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) program is dedicated to improving access to quality mental health in Harlem. The program teaches participants the warning signs of mental health problems, helps build an understanding of the importance of early intervention and seeking support. Information about support groups, tools for mental health, and local resources will be provided.

The Institute for Training Outreach and Community Health (InTOuCH) is a free community-based program designed to raise awareness about stroke and heart attack prevention. Through its rigorous training program, InTOuCH participants commit to serving the community as volunteer health workers and as counselors at Columbia's Wellness Center and local screening events.

About the Center

Welcome to the Columbia Community Wellness Center.

The center is led by neurologist Olajide Williams and psychiatrist Sidney Hankerson, physicians known for their pioneering approaches to improving public health in Harlem and Washington Heights. The Wellness Center operates with support from Columbia's Mortimer B. Zuckerman Mind Brain Behavior Institute .

The Wellness Center houses the Community Health Worker Stroke Prevention program, designed to raise awareness about one of the leading causes of death and disability in the United States. The free program includes six-week training sessions held throughout the year to give local residents the tools they need to become community health workers. Volunteers learn about cardiovascular health issues, with a special emphasis on stroke and related risk factors. The program, modeled on the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention training curriculum for community health workers, is led by Dr. Williams, chief of staff of neurology and associate professor of neurology at Columbia University Medical Center; founder of Hip Hop Public Health; and co-director of the Center for Stroke Disparities Solutions in New York.

“When we committed ourselves to creating a new kind of open, accessible campus in Manhattanville, we knew it would be essential to use this as an opportunity to deepen our partnerships with the local community.”
— Columbia President Lee C. Bollinger

A Specially Designed Community Center

Located on the ground floor of the Jerome L. Greene Science Center, the Wellness Center provides health resources to area residents. ColumbiaDoctors host community-based initiatives that train members of the Harlem community to become health advocates to prevent stroke and promote mental health. The center also provides free cholesterol and blood pressure screenings, health insurance enrollment, weight counseling, and other services.

Please note that the Wellness Center is not a clinical practice.

Stroke Awareness

The Wellness Center houses the Community Health Worker Stroke Prevention program (CHW), which empowers communities to combat stroke. The program includes 6-week trainings, held throughout the year at the Wellness Center, that give local residents the tools they need to become community health workers. Volunteers learn about various cardiovascular health topics, including motivational interviewing, with a special emphasis on stroke and related risk factors. Alumni of the program serve as health advocates in their communities and at faith-based organizations, with the overall goal of improving stroke outcomes and lowering the prevalence of stroke and related risk factors. The curriculum was developed with the assistance of community focus groups and in consultation with experts in health education.

The program, modeled on the Center for Disease Control and Prevention's CHW training curriculum, with the addition of culturally tailored multimedia components, is led by Olajide Williams, MD, chief of staff of neurology and associate professor of neurology at Columbia University Medical Center, founder of Hip Hop Public Health, and codirector of the Center for Stroke Disparities Solutions in New York.

The Wellness Center (el Centro de Salud) provee pruebas de presión arterial y análisis de colesterol gratuitos.

Visitantes también reciben un comprobante de sus resultados e información sobre la prevención y el cuidado continuo necesario para mantener la buena salud.

A petición, el personal del Wellness Center (Centro de Salud) proporciona información sobre atenciones médicas gratuitas, o de bajo costo, disponibles en las comunidades de Harlem y el Alto Manhattan. También se ofrece ayuda en la inscripción de un plan de seguro médico.

Columbia's Wellness Center (el Centro de Salud de Columbia) es hogar para varios grupos comunitarios, cuyas metas son empoderar a los residentes locales para mejorar en salud física y mental a través de la educación.

El programa Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) de Harlem se dedica a mejorar el acceso a la salud mental de alta calidad para sus residentes. Los participantes de este programa aprenden cómo reconocer las señales de advertencia, construyen la importancia de la intervención temprana, y conocen de lugares donde acudir para buscar apoyo. También se les brinda la oportunidad de compartir información sobre grupos de apoyo, herramientas para la salud mental e inculcan el conocimiento sobre los recursos locales a su disponibilidad.

El Institute for Training Outreach and Community Health (InTOuCH) es un programa comunitario diseñado para crear conciencia sobre la prevención de derrames cerebrales y ataques cardíacos. A través de un entrenamiento riguroso, los participantes de InTOuCH se comprometen a servir como voluntarios de trabajo de salud para la comunidad de Harlem—asistiendo varios eventos donde facilitan exámenes médicos; también sirven como consejeros en Columbia's Wellness Center (Centro de Salud de Columbia).

COLUMBIA | Wellness Center

Columbia University's Community Wellness Center in Manhattanville is a space specifically created with the Harlem community in mind. Our focus is to provide education and resources to empower people in making healthy lifestyle adjustments. All of the services we provide are free:

- health insurance enrollment
- blood pressure screening
- cholesterol screening
- mental health first aid training
- BMI and weight counseling
- health care referrals
- workshops

“Our goal is to promote education, awareness, and engagement, so people can get the help and healing that they need.”

-Sidney Hankerson, M.D., M.B.A.

With the goal to assist the community in developing a healthier relationship between the mind and body, the Wellness Center has workshops and resources to bridge the gap. It provides free blood pressure readings and cholesterol screening to the community. Visitors will receive a record of their results, as well as information on ways they can improve their health. Wellness Center staff will provide information about free and low-cost health care available throughout Harlem and Upper Manhattan and can assist with health insurance enrollment.

MENTAL HEALTH FIRST AID

Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) is a public education program that introduces participants to the warning signs of mental health problems, aids in understanding their impact, and debriefs their common treatments. MHFA is an 8-hour course that teaches about the risk factors of illnesses like anxiety, depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, eating disorders, and addictions. Instructors prepare participants to act in the event of a psychiatric emergency by distributing valuable information and conducting interactive exercises that simulate real-life events.

INTOUCH COMMUNITY HEALTH WORKER

The Institute for Training Outreach and Community Health (InTOuCH) is a community volunteer training program that offers local church health ministries the opportunity to train and serve as community health workers. This program aims to build a sustainable public health infrastructure in Harlem and Washington Heights that supports free community health screening and improved access to health care services for low income families and the uninsured.

Trainees completing the program commit to serve the local community as volunteer health workers, conducting local screening events, providing support for health insurance enrollment in affordable health plans, and acting as volunteer counselors at the Wellness Center.

“80% of strokes are preventable by controlling common cardiovascular risk factors. At the Wellness Center, our goal is to prevent strokes by helping the community identify, control, and eliminate these factors.”

High Blood Pressure Coalition: Take the Pressure Off, NYC!

Take the Pressure Off, NYC! (TPO NYC!) is New York City's first comprehensive, population-wide initiative focusing on preventing and controlling high blood pressure. The initiative aims to reduce the number of New Yorkers with raised blood pressure by 150,000 by 2022 and reduce health inequities. This initiative is led by a coalition of faith- and community-based organizations, employers, health care systems, pharmacies, organized labor, health insurance payers, government agencies and other stakeholders.

The TPO NYC! Inaugural Plan (PDF) outlines recommendations for action in three key areas: awareness, treatment and creation of heart-healthy communities.

The Health Department supports TPO NYC! by:

- Facilitating meetings of the initiative's activity groups.
- Offering technical assistance and resources.
- Reaching out and engaging with potential members to ensure broad representation and foster relationships among members.

To join the coalition or for more information, email

Bloodpressure@health.nyc.gov.

- Awareness: The two awareness activity groups work with diverse sectors to amplify the reach of life-saving information. They also work to increase access to and awareness of free blood pressure checks in community settings.
- Heart-Healthy Behaviors: This group aims to reduce sodium and sugar intake in local communities by promoting healthy food purchasing and procurement.

H.U.N.C Harlem United Neighborhood Community
TEAM HUNC HEALTH AWARENESS DAY

July 13th, 2019

Hello,

My name is Anthony Nixon CEO of H.U.N.C Harlem United Neighborhood Community. We are a small not-for profit group committed to empowering the community. For the past 30 years, we have been giving back to all ages in the Harlem community by sponsoring and hosting free events such as our Annual Halloween Party, Thanksgiving Day Dinner & Clothing Drive for the Homeless and Seniors Citizens, and Christmas Day Secret Santa (providing gifts for families in need). We are also well known for our Youth Basketball League (Team HUNC), which occurs every summer from July –August with over 750 participating teens and parents ending with the Annual Back to School Tournament/Backpack & School Supply Giveaway which all the kids look forward to.

This year, I would like to embark on a new journey to introduce Health Awareness which I believe is the biggest tool in fighting health conditions and prevention through knowledge.

We are having our first Health Awareness Day, Saturday July 13th, 2019 starting at 11:00 AM at Arlington “Ollie” Edinboro Park located at West 140th Street & Saint Nicholas Ave, (Harlem) NYC. “Healthy Living”- weight management, diet, exercise, and stress management, in addition to diabetes, cholesterol, and blood pressure awareness.

We are inviting your organization table and if possible offer on-site medical screenings. Your presence will promote positivity and empowerment to the community through this health awareness initiative.

Please complete and return the attached Exhibitor Form by June 15th, 2019, and contact me at (917) 754-4070 or email hunccommunity140@gmail.com with any questions or concerns.

Thank you in advance for your time and consideration.

Anthony Nixon
